PREFACE.

The following List is intended to supersede 'Lists and Indexes No. III,' published in 1894. It has been extended so as to include the series of Letters and Papers, Foreign and Domestic, of the reign of Henry VIII., and the Records of the Home Office and the Signet Office to the year 1837 inclusive.

In making the present arrangement, a plan has been adopted similar to that used in dealing with the State Papers Foreign (Lists and Indexes No. XIX). A clear distinction is made between the letters, books, and papers, previous to 1782, formerly deposited in the State Paper Office, Whitehall, and the records of the Home Office, which was established as a separate Department in March of that year.

Owing to the fact that, in 1782, the Home Secretary, in undertaking all purely domestic business, previously shared by the two principal Secretaries of State, took over the books and papers relating thereto, certain of these records came to be known as Home Office papers, and have been so styled in various Lists and Calendars. In the present list, this and other technical misdescriptions have been corrected, although this plan has involved a sacrifice of printed references in two official Calendars, viz. the Calendar of State Papers Domestic, for the reign of William and Mary, and the Calendar of Home Office Papers 1760—1775.

At the same time, the classification of these papers has been simplified, and documents formerly known by different titles have been brought together or restored to their proper places. As there were, previous to 1782, two principal Secretaries of State, each competent to administer home affairs, there existed two parallel series of letter books, formerly styled 'Secretaries' Letter Books' and 'Domestic Entry Books,' identical in character. Similarly, there were two sets of 'Military Books,' two sets of 'Warrant Books,' and so on. Any scheme to reconstruct the different series according to the offices in which they originated is rendered nugatory by the fact that a Secretary of State removed from one 'province' or 'department' to the other sometimes continued to use the books of his former office. The Domestic Entry Books now form a complete series, and are numbered consecutively.

It is hoped that the sacrifice of a few printed references will be more than compensated for by the simplicity of the new arrangement and the more accurate description of what it includes. For precise details, the reader is referred to the Table of Contents and the List itself.

Although the earlier portion of this volume is intended to be a list of State Papers, Domestic, it has been thought convenient to include in it the State Papers, Foreign, of the reign of Henry VIII., because the Calendar of that period deals alike with Papers Foreign and Domestic, and the original documents are bound together so as to conform to the arrangement of the printed text. The series of State Papers, Scotland 1509—1603, and Mary, Queen of Scots, have also been included, in order to preserve a continuity with the Scottish Papers later than 1603 noticed in the Calendar of State Papers, Domestic.

A number of documents relating to the business of the Navy Commissioners or Navy Board, previous to June 1673, were formerly placed among the Domestic papers of the period, and calendared as such. Navy Board papers of a later date have been restored to their proper place amongst the records of the Admiralty deposited in this Office.

The second part of the volume gives a complete list of Home Office books and papers for the period 1782—1837.

It has been thought desirable to avoid, as far as possible, multiplication of small classes. Documents of a like or related nature will be found together under convenient general titles, such as 'Criminal,' 'Departmental,' 'Domestic,' 'Military,' etc. Entry Books follow, where possible, the correspondence and papers with which they are connected.

A list of Signet Office Records to the year 1837 concludes the volume. The Signet Office existed as a distinct, though subordinate, organisation until its absorption by the Home Office a few years later. The series of Office Docquet Books begins as early as 1584.

A list of Secretaries of State, with the dates of their appointment or admission to office from the time of Henry VIII. to the year 1837, is appended. It has been compiled from the various Entry Books, Foreign and Domestic, kept in the offices of the Secretaries of State, from the Registers of the Privy Council, the Entry Books of warrants of appointments of the Lord Chamberlain's Office, the London Gazette, Luttrell's Brief Relation, Chamberlayne's Angliæ Notitia, and other contemporary authorities. The well-known division of Secretarial duties into 'Northern' and 'Southern' provinces, which apparently began about the time of the Revolution, was at first not so rigidly observed that individual Secretaries of State can, in all cases, be definitely assigned to one class or the other, but from 1702 onwards they may be tabulated more precisely under their respective titles of 'Northern' and 'Southern.' There was a third Secretary for America and the Colonies during the period 1768—1782, and one or more Secretaries for Scotland, with an occasional interval, from 1584 till 1746. Their names are given separately at the end of the List.

The papers have been re-arranged and the List prepared by Mr. J. V. Lyle, of this Department.

—	Elizabeth I - Charles I				Naval Memoranda See S. P. 12/237

- [a] A collection of documents relating to the Marches, compiled by Thomas, first Lord Wharton, and presented by him to Queen Elizabeth about the year 1568, with later additions. The documents entered cover the years 1449—1587
- [b] A collection of documents, compiled by Richard Bell of Carlisle, Warden Clerk of the West Marches, and presented to King James I in 1603. The documents entered cover the years 1249—1603, but are mostly of the sixteenth century. Most of the contents of this and of the preceeding volume (which were formerly known as Border Papers 74 and 75) have been printed in Nicolson's Leges Marchiarum (1705)
- [c] Copy of Charter of Privilege to the Island of Guernsey by Queen Elizabeth, and also of 1. Extent of the island of 50 Edw. III
2. Precent of Assize of 1441 [French translation made in 1498]
